Chief, Control Branch, O/CI

Exchange of Information Between O/RR and O/CI

1. This confirms our conversation of 17 January regarding the exchange of information between O/RR and O/CI.

The Office of Current Intelligence assumes the responsibility for:

   (a) routing special intelligence items to the O/RR components within the cleared area, in accordance with O/RR's specific requirements;

   (b) processing requirements (based on special intelligence items) originated by the O/RR component.

2. The Office of Research and Reports assumes the responsibility for routing to the appropriate desk of the Support Branch those items which contain economic information on the Soviet Orbit and which are of current intelligence nature.

It is not necessary for O/RR to forward to the Support Branch cables and despatches from State, or cables and despatches from Army, Navy, Air and ECA, notwithstanding the fact that such cables and despatches contain information described above.
